

Online retailers talk a good game but the truth is as plain as the noses on their faces.

For almost 20 years, online-only retailers have claimed collecting sales taxes was too complicated. Yet technology has advanced over the past two decades making collection much simpler and less expensive. In fact, brick-and-mortar stores nationwide collect sales taxes every day.

We need a federal solution that reflects the realities of the 21st Century.

The International Council of Shopping Centers believes it's time to close the multi-billion dollar tax loophole for online retailers. The federal government should no longer play favorites.
